TUESDAY, JUNE 10, 1913.

An Evening Echo.

Be what you wish others to become. Let yourself, and not your words preach.—AMTEL.

Warmer weather says the weather man which is certainly very encouraging to the man with a garden hoe.

The trend of events at Washington indicates that the Democrats have abandoned their tariff for revenue only policy in favor of a Congress for revenue only.

It doubtless gives a national reputation of the government and office hungry Democrats mutual pleasure when opportunities present themselves these days for the wielding of the official axe. They have not forgotten the days of Adlai Stevenson.

Let it be hoped, in view of a recent decision by a local justice of the peace in which a citizen was allowed $5 damages from the city for having his trousers muddled by the street flushing machine, that the town idlers will not all line up on the curb waiting for the flusher to come along. In that event the street superintendent would have to hire a runner to go in advance of the machine.

Even our own distinguished congressman has been guilty of writing home to his constituents to write him what they think about this or the other question. The supposition is that those who responded are among those branded now by the national administration as being either lobbyists or persons seeking to influence legislation. The president evidently seeks to break up the practice of obtaining the views of the public on public questions.

Three senators of President Wilson's own party had made up their minds to recommend a tariff duty on meat, flour and other foods, but as soon as the president heard of their decision an important conference was held with them at the White House and they came forth with changed minds. Was there any tariff lobbying there or any attempt to dissuade senators from voting as they had decided best for the country?

Goff's Income.

Senator Goff admits that he has an income of seventy-five thousand dollars per year. That ought to be enough to make a man a reasonably successful politician, at least. A man who fools with politics ought to have some such stake.—Bluefield Telegraph.

It must be remembered, however, that Senator Goff acquired the greater part of his wealth after he left the field of politics. It is probably not far wrong to say that in his case he spent more money in politics than he ever got out of it.

Publicity Needed.

A suspicious editorial paragraph reading as follows appears in the Wheeling Register:

"Wanted: Rooms for visitors during semi-centennial week. Owners may name their own prices and reserve the right to reject any or all applicants. Send names to semi-centennial committee."

The Register makes no explanation of the wording of the want ad, which, if official, is certainly most unfortunate as it tends to create the fear that a situation similar to that in Baltimore during the Democratic national convention as to accommodations may prevail in Wheeling during the semi-centennial week. Either the Register or the commission in charge should hasten to correct the impression those few editorial lines are creating. Wheeling is noted for its hospitality and as the semi-centennial will be the greatest event in its history it should see to it that its fame as a host becomes greater and more widely circulated.

In view of the fact that one of the home newspapers has made this crack, whether serious or not, the semi-centennial management, especially the Wheeling contingent of it, should see the importance of giving the widest possible publicity to rates and accommodations at hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, residences and the like.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Interesting Exhibit.

An exhibit of all the state poems and songs entered in the recent competition would make an interesting feature of the semi-centennial celebration.—Wheeling Register.

Holds Good Now.

The old rule about it being better late than never is just as susceptible of proof in these days as at any time in the past.—Huntington Advertiser.

Has Work at Home.

Senator Martine, while gallantly insisting on a lurid searchlight for industrial affairs in West Virginia, might divide time with his home state. Editors are being imprisoned there for inciting riot, agitators are being imprisoned and deported.—Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

Only a Dream.

"Last night we lay a dreaming" that we were poet laureate of Charleston-on-Kanawha, on a salary equivalent to Senator Goff's income. We woke and found that life is duty.—Charleston Gazette.

Sobriety the Fashion.

The trend of the age is shown in the fact that President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan, Colonel Roosevelt, and, in fact, all of the public men of the nation, with possibly a few exceptions, have cut out drinking or never begun to drink. The fashion is sobriety, and that is an advance the nation should be proud of.—Bluefield Telegraph.

Unfortunate Remark.

Thomas Nelson Page remarked on the occasion of Bryan's acceptance of the secretaryship in the state department that the state portfolio, when grave and consequential foreign problems arise, "the president must hold himself." The remark was unfortunate, considering that he is about to embark on a diplomatic career, under the direct direction of Mr. Bryan. His statement has been justified, however, by the fact that Wilson has taken personal charge of the imbroglio with Japan over California land legislation.—Parkersburg Dispatch-News.

More Yet Needed.

Postmaster General Burleson makes the interesting statement that a thousand additional mail clerks and about five hundred additional letter carriers have entered the service of the department during the last ninety days. This sounds like real business. But, if all sections of the country are suffering from delay in delivery of the mails like unto the suffering hereabouts of late, it will require ten or twelve thousand additional clerks more to correct all the troubles.—Charleston Mail.

Conducive to Lying.

John Hays Hammond's advice to the students of Ohio Northern University that before inquiring as to a man's wealth they should first ask him how he got it and what he is going to do with it is subject to the objections that both questions are impertinent in the questioner and conducive to lying on the part of the respondent.—Morgantown New Dominion.

MILLER NAMED.

CHARLESTON, June 10.—Joseph C. Miller, of Kenova, has been appointed by Governor Hatfield a member of the Virginia debt commission to succeed Judge John H. Holt, of Huntington, who announced he could not serve.

At the beginning of 1912 there were approximately 12,435,000 telephones and 29,366,000 miles of telephone wire in use in the world.

SALEM

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

SALEM, June 10.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of Salem College the old board of directors was re-elected, and it is understood that the faculty and teachers the last year are all retained.

Harley D. Perine is critically ill of pneumonia at the home of his father, D. L. Perine.

Mrs. Nora D. Schutte and daughter, Miss Nellie, are visiting in Chicago this week. They started for the western city Sunday.

Tra C. Davis left Sunday night for Kenna, N. D., where he will work on the wheat ranch of Squire H. B. Davis and look after his interests there.

At a mass meeting held recently a general committee was appointed to make arrangements for a patriotic and appropriate jollification on July 4. Following is the general committee: C. A. Schutte, M. B. Davis, Jules Michotte, S. C. Band, George Bourmark, Orin Swiger and Max Joffe. Working committees have been named and are industriously at work, and a grand time is assured in the "City of Peace" on the nation's birthday.

The established and prevailing price for wool here is eighteen cents per pound.

C. A. Schutte left Monday for Huntington to attend the state meeting of the Business Men's Association as the representative of the local association. He was recently elected secretary of the local organization.

D. I. Thomas has resigned his position with the Oil Well Supply Company and has returned to his home at Grafton. Mr. Bunting, of Clarksburg, has been promoted to the Salem store, and has assumed his duties.

Merrill Haney visited his mother at Bristol and spent some time here Sunday.

BRISTOL

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

BRISTOL, June 9.—Edna Pearl, the little four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Matthey, was burned very badly Monday morning when her gown became ignited from an open gas fire and burned it completely from her body. She was burned the worst on the right hip and arm. The burn is not thought to be serious and the little girl is resting very well today.

Charles R. Donnelly, a pumper for the Southern Oil Company, returned from Fairmont Sunday evening where he attended to business interests.

Miss Winifred Haney, of Salem Fork creek, left Saturday for Chicago, where she will visit her aunt, Miss Maggie Davis, will be graduated from the Wesleyan Hospital for Trained Nurses. She expects to be gone several weeks.

James Gilligan, section boss for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was taken to St. Mary's hospital at Clarksburg Sunday morning to be treated for a catarrhal affliction of the head. One of his sons is also in a critical condition from inflammatory rheumatism and mumps.

Mrs. U. Sheldon Bennett left here Monday morning for Dayton, O., where she will make her future home. She was met at Parkersburg by her husband and together they proceeded to their new home.

Samuel T. Tate and Abraham Talkington, two prominent farmers and stock dealers of Sedalia, started Sunday evening for Cincinnati and Chicago, where they will purchase cattle for their grazing farms.

Miss Blanche Meredith and brother, Dwight, are sojourning with friends and relatives at Fairmont this week.

Sheldon Davis is spending a couple of weeks at Weston, a guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Anniwalt.

Misses Jettie, Lillie and Cinda Morris were visiting Miss Dottie B. Barnes at her home here Sunday.

Hiram D. Lynch, road supervisor of division No. 2 of Tennille district, was a business visitor in Clarksburg Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Grow and daughter, Miss Sadie, were shopping in Salem Saturday evening.

The five-inch casing at the Ed. Sigley well No. 1, on Flinderston, collapsed last week while the bailer was in the hole and it is not known whether it can be gotten out or not. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barnes and children, and Miss Belle Barnes were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Luther Barnes and family Sunday evening.

Fine Points in Advertising

A reader of THE TELEGRAM the other day was planning a fortnight's fishing trip in the mountains, and in running through the advertising pages chanced upon an advertisement of a sporting goods house.

Being entranced by the "out-door" atmosphere and sportsmanlike tone of the announcement he was soon deeply engrossed. Toward the end, to please detailed information about the very lake on which he expected to spend his vacation.

He learned all about the fish and their habits, and the kind of tackle to use and a number of other useful and informing points all as if written for his especial benefit by a true lover of the sport.

Crystallized in this one advertisement was all of the information, and more, that he needed to complete the arrangements for his trip.

This is only one instance of the splendid help that present day advertising offers to the readers of THE TELEGRAM.
